Ports and Maritime Organization's Condolence Message in memorial of Prof. Robert Dean

On behalf of the Ports and Coastal Engineering Department of Ports & Maritime Organization of Iran (PMO) , we would like to extend our sincere condolences and sympathy to Prof. Dean's family and scientists all around the world who have worked in the field of coastal engineering.

Prof. Robert G. Dean, known to most of us as a world leader of coastal engineering, died on Saturday, February 28, 2015 at the age of 84. He suffered rather fragile health in recent years and he had deteriorated very rapidly with pneumonia in a few days.

Dr. Dean spent most of his professional career as a Graduate Research Professor at the University of Florida, with brief stints at M.I.T., University of Washington, and seven years at the University of Delaware. He has always supported ICOPMAS to improve the scientific

We remember Prof. Dean in particular by his very active promotion of the exchange of knowledge in the field of coastal engineering with his keynote speeches in ICOPMAS. His reviews were always critical, but at the same time mild because he had an open eye for human relations and a good sense of humor.

He was a gracious colleague, always willing to discuss problems, and friend to many in the field. We will miss him greatly.

Cooperation:

You are kindly invited to cooperate with us for making this newsletter.

You can share marine and environmental news in your country or any related items. It would also be possible to introduce projects of this field in your city and country with some pictures so that other scientists and researchers all around the world become acquainted with it.

Considering the fact that this newsletter would be sent every two months you can send your news until the end of February using the email address below.
